An Australian to-do list. A broody host brother. A disaster in the making.

When Maya leaves Chicago armed with an important Aussie must-do list, she assumes she's heading to Barangaroo with its beautiful Sydney Harbour views—NOT Barangaroo Creek, a fly-ridden, wi-fi dead zone hours from a decent body of water. Like that's not bad enough, her home-stay host brother Gus clearly wishes she'd landed in somebody else's sheep paddock.

Gus has important plans this summer—plans that do NOT involve helping an animal-phobe from the States tick off items on her seriously clichéd must-do list. So he devises a list of his own—one guaranteed to send Maya packing, allowing him to enjoy the last of his freedom before he trudges off to agricultural college.

But Maya doesn't scare that easily and soon sparks fly. Before long, Gus and Maya discover hidden depths to clichéd bucket-lists and secret summer plans. Because sometimes it takes someone half a world away to remind you why you're really here.

Kat Colmer is a Sydney-based author and teacher librarian who writes coming-of-age stories with humour and heart. Her debut novel The Third Kiss was published by Entangled Teen (2017) and her second young adult novel Can't Beat the Chemistry was released by Australian publisher Rhiza Edge (2019).

Kat has a Diploma of Education with a Masters in Teacher Librarianship and loves working with teens. Having spent a significant portion of her childhood in Germany, Kat speaks fluent German and is looking forward to the day she'll be able to read one of her novels in Deutsch. When not writing, teaching or reading the latest in YA fiction, Kat spends time with her resident YA critics—aka her two children.
